BLOODY CHICAMAUGA. MINGLING OF THE BLUE AND THE

THE OLD VETERANS JOIN HANDS

And Adjourn to Meet on the Battlefield of Chicamanga Today—Speeches by Gen-eral Boynton and Governor Marks.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., September 19 .- The liminary meeting of the Chicamauga asso-ion was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, in a mammoth tent erected for the occasion. The big tent was gorgeously decorated by the ladies of the city, the wives and daughters of soldiers of the city, the wives and daughters of soldiers of both sides, with flags and bunting and beautiful flowers and evergreens adorning the speaker's stand. According to the order of the local committee having the matter in charge, the tent was opened first to old soldiers of the army of the Cumberland and members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who were given front seats, there being fully 2,500 of them. These were followed by a long line of them. These were followed by a long line of ex-confederate soldiers, one thousand strong, headed by the United States Fourth regiment om Atlanta, and as the boys in gray entered the great tent to the enlivening stra throng of people rose to their feet, and a-long cheer followed for the old confederate soldiers, which was responded to with a "rebel yell" and a grand hurrah for the "old flag." There

INTERMINGLING OF OLD SOLDIERS, federates being sandwiched in among old derals. This circumstance attracted general ttention, and was a gratifying augury for the success of the Chicamauga National park scheme. As soon as the great assemblage had been seated, A. S. Ochs, chairman of the local tee having in charge the Chicamauga association reception, arose and stated that that meeting had been called to organize a memorial association composed of old federal and ex-confederate soldiers, for the purpose of ourchasing the ground of the Chicamauga battlefield and converting it into a national park, dedicated to the memory of the herois alor and glowing chivalry of the soldiers of oth armies who engaged each other on that

Rev. J. W. Bachman, ex-confederate chaplain, of this city, then offered a fervent prayer, invoking the blessings of the Almighty on the movement about to be made to cement and bind the hearts of the old soldiers together.

After prayer Mr. Ochs suggested that a airman be named, and Captain J. F. Shipp, mmander of N. B. Forrest camp ex-confedveterans, of this city, nominat

GENERAL W. S. ROSECRANS as chairman, in a fitting speech, in which he alluded to the general as the hero of Chicamauga. Amid uproarous applause, the general was chosen, and in a few words, heartily indorsing the Chicamauga memorial move ment, he called the meeting to order.

ment, he called the meeting to order.

General Rosecrans said:
Ladies, Gentlemen and Comrades of the Blue and Gray: This occasion is one of which you will look through history in vain to find a second. To a twenty-six years ago began that great and bloody battle of Chicamangs, within twelve miles of this place, and the survivors of that battle, both blue and gray, and the people who today enjoy the fruits which grew out of that battlefield, are assembled together to say how they shall make it a national memorial ground, which the people at all times shall come and visit with the interest due such events which occurred on that sanguinary field. One of the mest noble features to me of this occasion is that. It is very difficult to find in history an instance where contending parties, in after years, meet together in perfect amity. It took great men to win that battle; but it takes greater menstill, I will say, morally, to throw all ill feeling which naturally grows out of such a contest. [Applause.] To me there is another feature of nemensetill, I will say, morally, to throw all ill feel ing which naturally grows out of such a contest. [Applause.] To me there is another feature of peculiar interest, and that is that there has been no time since the war, when the people of the south through the noble sentiments of the survivors and respect felt by all for the men who fought and fell in their cause, could systematically undertake the deeds they performed and to keep allive their memories by the creatio of monuments, without incurring complaint of the newspaper press that they were keeping up the memories of the war, and feelings of hatred, which ought to perish as peace returns. On the soil of Georgia tooth blue and gray can unite in obtaining control over the battle ground, laying out roads and marking sights where men entitled in soil of Georgia both blue and gray can unite in obtaining control over the battle ground, laying out roads and marking sights where men entitled in their opinion to special respect and special veneration, may have monuments erected to their memories, where organizations who choose to do so may put up monuments to the heroism displayed on those fields, without criticism and with rather a feeling of comradeship. That to me is a very noble thing, and I believe that the spirit that brings you here on this occasion, and the foundation upon which your view rest, conspire to produce a result very wonderful indeed. You will be told a great many things by those who will follow me to show how strong the foundation of our expectation is, that we are commencing a national event at this meeting this atternoon. As I am quite unfitted for public speaking, and heartily detest the task, I think what I have said will be enough to show to you how thankful I am to be with you, and to be called upon to preside over this meeting. The first exercise in order will be some remarks from General H. V. Boynton, who deserves the thanks of everybody, and especially of the comrades of the Army of the Cumberland for his work in studying up this subject, and he will tell you a great deal more than I can.

GENERAL BOYNTON SPEAKS.

GENERAL BOYNTON SPEAKS.

After some spirited music by the Fourth regiment band General H. V. Boynton, of Washington, D. C., was introduced as one of the leading spirits in inaugurating this grand movement. General Boynton heartily approved of the plan suggested in the circular of the local Chicamauga committee, and expressed the belief that the next congress would hear the petition of the old soldiers of both sides, and would rescue the old battlefield from the ownership of private parties and dedicate it to the perpetuation of the memory of the of the HEROIC BRAVERY AND FORTITUDE of the American soldiery. He spoke of the battle of Chicamauga as the most important of the war, and one of the most sanguinary ever fought by civilized soldiers. In the battle of Chicamauga 333 per cent of both armies were lost, over thirty-five thousand men being killed, missing and captured. General Boynton's address was the keynote of the occasion, and the old soldiers stood up and yelled for the Chicamauga national park.

Following General Boynton, Ex-Governor Albert S. Marks, of Tennessee, responded in behalf of the ex-confiderates of the south. strongly urging the organization of the associ-behalf of the ex-confederates of the south, strongly urging the organization of the association. General Marks's address was eloquent and scholarly, and was frequently interrupted by applause from the audience. Ex-Governor Marks created a slight sensation when, turning to General Rosecrans, he characterized him as the greatest military genius of the war on the federal side, and gave him credit for the victory in the battles about Chattancoga.

General Marks was followed by Colonel W.

tory in the battles about Chattaneoga.

General Marks was followed by Colonel W.

A. Henderson, of Knoxville, an ex-confederate, who thanked God for the reunion of the blue and the gray. Colonel Henderson alluded to who hanked God for the reunion of the blue and the gray. Colonel Henderson alluded to the results of the war by saying that the south was the greatest victor of the two sections. Slavery had been abolished and the dignity of labor had been established. The young men of the south had learned to work, and were glad of it. "You boys in blue," said the colonel, "won the lawsuit between the south and the north, but we got the mule." Colonel Henderson was warmly and enthusiastically applauded by all.

plauded by all.

GENERAL HENRY M. CIST,
secretary of the Army of the Cumberland, then briefly mentioned the object of the Chicamanga Memorial association, to which he gave earnest indorsement. He begged all the old soldiers to use their influence with their congressmen and senators and state legislators to further the interests of the organization.

A general handshaking followed between the old soldiers, 4,000 of whom were in and about the tent. Adjournment was then had to the battlefield of Chicamanga, where permanent organization will be effected tomorrow, after which the great barbecue, prepared for 15,000 people, will be apread by the people of Chattanooga, assisted by the citizens of Rome. It is estimated that 15,000 will be present, and ample provision has been made for all. Chattanooga has received the greatest possible praise for the admirable manner in which the tremendous crowd now in the city has been handled and cared for.

The Society of the Army of the Cumberland. At the meeting of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland today, General Musser presented a memorial as to the death of Judge Stanley Matthews.

The committee on the Sheridan statue reported that only a few hundred dollars had been subscribed to the fund. Congress had appropriated $40,000, and $35,000 more was necessary. The committee would actively engage in obtaining subscriptions. Decoration day week is requested to be set apart by the Grand Army of the Republic for the purpose of taking collections for this fund. The designs for the statue have not been advertised, the committee being unanimous in the conclusion that the work be given to J. Q. A. Ward, the sculptor, who is an honorary member of the society, and who executed statues of Garfield and Grant. It is also desired that the initiation fees of new members shall be applied to the fund.

Toledo, O., was selected as the place of the next meeting, which will be held September 17 and 18, 1890.

General G. P. Thurston, of Tennessee, was elected as orator, and Judge Albion W. Tourgee, of New York, as alternate orator for the next meeting. The following officers were elected:

President, W. S. Rosecrans; corresponding secretary, General P. M. Cist; recording secretary, Colonel John M. Steele; treasurer, General Joach M. Fullerton; first vice-president, Major S. Colburn, of this city, and one vice-president for each state represented.

The matter of new membership provoked considerable discussion, and it was determined that circulars should be sent to every member of the army of the Cumberland, inviting them to join. A misunderstanding has prevailed that privates are not eligible to membership, which is not true. The question of initiation fees and election of Generals Ordway and Wilson, as members; also admissions of sons of members members; also admissions of sons of members of the Army of the Cumberland, was deferred until the next meeting, a separate committee of five being appointed to consider these important questions.

Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, and Congressman Grosvenor, of Ohio, were requested to introduce a resolution in congress, asking an appropriation for the purchase of General S. W. Price's life-sized portrait of General Thomas, the same to be lung in the national capitol building.

A resolution thanking the citizens of Chat-tanooga for their generous hospitality was passed, but a resolution thanking the ex-con-federates for their reception was withdrawn, on a suggestion from General Grosvenor, that ther was no such thing as confederates now, they were all one people with the soldiers of the north, and were included in the general resolution of thanks. The society agreed that resolution of thanks. The society agreed that no distinction should be made, and that they should be considered included in the original should be considered included in the original resolution. People here are delighted at the honor conferred upon Tennessee, the first vice president and orator both being chosen from this state. Final adjournment will be had tomorrow on the battlefield of Chicamauga.

THE ANNUAL BANQUET of the Scriety of the Army of the Cumberland took place tonight at Concordia hall, and was a most brilliant and enjoyable affair. Generals Rosecräps, Grosvenor, Goodlee, Cist,

Assault Reviewed-A Sentence of Two

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., September 19.—The court did not open this morning for the continuation of the trial of Mrs. Eva Hamilton for an atrocious assault upon Nurse Mary Donnelly until 10:45. The delay was caused by the detention, through an accident, to the extra train from Atlantic City, upon which were the judges, attorneys and others officially connected with the case. When the juries had taken their seats, Judge Reed said: "Mr. Sheriff, bring in the defendant." The sheriff stated that defendant, Mrs. Hamilton, begged to be excused from appearing, on account of serious illness, and the judge allowed the case to proceed.

Then Captain Perry, counsel for the defeuse began his argument. He said he hoped the jurors would frame their verdict according to the testimony, independent of newspaper re-ports or other influences. He closed with a review of the circumstances which led to the assault, and argued that the testimony showed clearly that Mary Ann Donnelly, the nurse, was the first aggressor and that she forced Mrs. Hamilton to pick up the knife in self-defense. She had threatened to kill her mistress. She was hot-tempered and frenzied with brandy and assailed Mrs. Hamilton with

A VERDICT OF GUILTY.

The jury after being out an hour and a queter came in at 3:15 and returned a verdict of "guilty as indicated," of atrocious assault. Mrs. Hamilton was led into the courtroom by the sheriff, and when the foreman of the jury declared the verdict she fell in a swoon on the floor. It was a most dramatic scene, and brought tears to almost every eye in the courtroom. She was sentenced to two years in the state's prison.

as a plot of the so-called "triangle." The Times says:
Another scheme on the part of the defense, and one which has in view nothing less than the absolute clearing of the tronin suspects and the creation of public sentiment in their behalf, was sprung on the public yesterday. In boldness of design it is quite equal to that of the stupendous conspiracy that murdered Dr. Cronin. How or from what source came the first intimation of what the character and nature of the Cronin defense was to be nobody knew, but the first intimation of what the character and matter of the Cronth defense was to be nobody knew, but suddenly and simultaneously, in all the afternoon papers there appeared a plan of defense soskilffully told to the blind average reader and make him be-lieve that this carefully devised story is reality.

The latest story advanced by the frangle to account for the murder of Dr. Cronin is worthy of that I ridge of romancers, Baron Munchausen bimself. The instigators of the crime and their apologists and defenders have outdone themselves not only to thinew theory palpably false and malicious, but ridies ulous in the extreme and unworthy of a moment's consideration did thot outline part of the plan of the defense. The Tribune story was put in circulation yesterday in behalf of the men on trial for the murder of Dr. Cronin which, as a marvelous and well-studied concoction, is only second to the plot itself, whereby the marder was carried out. The plan was worthy of the brain which devised the decoy contract, forged telegrams from Toronto, the tin lox of Klaures, renting of the cottage at Woolwich and the discovery of the exhumed corpse dressed in the murdered man's clothes from floating in the Thames, but unfortunately the plot falls through for a cogenit reason. A Proposition for a White Republican Ticket.

Jackson, Miss., September 19.—[Special.]—
The approaching republican state convention is creating a lively stir among the politicians of that party. The editor of the only republican paper in the state declares for Chalmers for governor, and a ticket composed entirely of white men. The "Messenger," edited by J. J. Spellman, a colored man, strongly denounces the proposition that no colored man should be put on the ticket, and claims that the race is entitled to recognition. It names W. E. Mollison, the colored clerk of Issaquena county, for a place on the ticket. This colored county, for a place on the ticket. This co paper also opposes Chalmers's nomination for governor, and proposes H. C. Niles, of Kosciusko, the newly appointed United States district attorney for the northern district. A lively time is expected at the convention on the 25th of this mouth.

A heated discussion brought out personalities in several instances, notably between Dr. Felton and Mr. Humphries, of Brooks.

back again, some decidedly strong language was used, then after the heat of the debate, both apologized to the house. "The discussion was over the girls' industrial school bill. After a number of speeches-the bill was de feated for a want of a constitutional majority.

It received eighty-six votes, two less than was necessary to pass it. The discussion consumed the greater part of the morning and afternoon session. A vote was not reached until the afternoon ssion, and for this reason the bill failed. If a vote had been taken at the morning session, the bill would have passed, possibly by from ten to fifteen votes more than necessary, certainly by a small majority.

The continuance of the debate until the close of the morning session was unfortunate for the bill-more so than some of its friends seemed to realize. Several members who were warmly in favor of the bill left for their homes on the afternoon trains and it was impossible to muster up the requisite number of votes when the afternoon session met. A motion will be made to re-consider the bill today, and will no doubt prevail. When the motion was made yesterday morning to take up the special order, Mr. Howell, of Fulton, moved that the house limit the debate in the committee of the whole to one hour. very fully in all its details-both for and against. Every member had made up his mind how he was going to vote, and he thought it was time to draw the debate to a close. If any other members desired to be heard, they could finish in one hour, and the bill could then be voted on.

Mr. Berner said he wanted to see the bill discussed more fully. He did not want to throttle the debate at all.

"How does my motion throttle debate? Can't you debate the bill in the house when it is reported back?" asked Mr. Howell. Mr. Berner said the limiting of the debate was in the nature of the previous question, and he was opposed to it. He carried his point and Mr. Howell's motion was lost. The discussion consumed the morning and afternoon sessions, and when a vote was reached it failed to pass, as stated.

On motion of Mr. Atkinson, of Coweta, the special order was taken up. The house went into a committee of the whole, with Candler, of DeKalb, in the chair.

MR. CALVIN, OF RICHMOND, resumed his remarks. He denied the statement that the boys who went to college were rich men's sons. There were a large majority of them poor boys, and came from the rural This was the case with Athens Emory and Mercer, and so it would be if this college was established. He strongly sup-ported the bill for an industrial school for omen. It was a great necessity in this state, and he hoped the house would pass it. MR. SIMMONS, OF SUMTER, strongly supported the bill. It was a duty, he argued, that the state owed the women to establish this school. In an eloquent and forcible speech Mr. Simmons pointed out the necessity of such an institute and of the great work for good that it would do.

was opposed to the bill. "The girls today are better educated than the boys of Georgia are," he said. "When Georgia lay prostrate at the close of the war, the fathers and sons went to the plow, and the daughters were sent to school. Southern manhood would protect southern womanhood, and the brothers and fathers would go down into their pockets and give them an education. They are better educated than our boys. We do not need $75,000 to teach the girls of Georgia to write on typewriters. I never wanted to see the peach blossoms of the face of our southern girls rubbed off by coming in contact with the outside world. He wanted to see the day when every valley and hill-top was dotted with cozy school nouses. He was conscientiously opposed to this bill. The Western and Atlantic railroad had not yet been leased and he thought it premature to vote away money from the lease before we knew what we would get,

MR. ATKINSON AGAIN Mr. Atkinson, of Coweta, said the women of Georgia were prevented from doing any thing but keeping boarding houses and teaching school. This bill did not contemplate a gift. It was an investment that the women of Georgia could be trusted to return every dollar with interest and usury. It was to take the poor girls from the hoe-handle and give them better and more practical work.

was opposed to the bill. "The girls are getting nearly as much from the state now as the boys are," he said. "They receive at least one-half of the benefits of the common school fund and they receive an equal benefit from the branch colleges. This industrial school would be a local affair any way. It would not benefit the toiling masses. It is taxing the few for the many and we hope it will be defeated."

Mr. Frazer, of Oconee, favored the bill. He had not talked to a single woman who did not want this bill passed. It was right and just and this house should do this for our noble women. He said the demonstrations in the galleries yesterday showed that the women favored the bill.

MR. HUMPHRIES, OF BROOKS,

gaileries yesterday snowed that the women favored the bill.

MR. HUMPHRIES, OF BROOKS, said he had always been taught to respect old age and white hairs, and in his remarks yesterday he was not aware that the gentleman from Bartow was a minister and a graduate of the State university. If he had known this he would have excepted him in his remarks relating to ministers turned out by Athens.

"I have been attacked by the gentleman from Bartow for differing with him on this bill," he said. "I have a right to differ from him. I am opposed to this bill from sincere convictions. The gentleman from Bartow has said Brooks county is out of Georgia—"

Mr. Felton—"That's not true. I said I didn't know where it was."

Mr. Humphries replied that he (Mr. Felton) had been reported wrong then.

"The gentleman has seen fit to attack the county of Brooks, which is the third richest county in agriculture in the state. And yet county of Brooks, which is the third richest county in agriculture in the state. And yet the gentleman from Bartow does not know where Brooks county is. It is the county that had sent Henry G. Turner to the halls of congress where he is one of the foremost men in in the country."

Mr. Humphries said that his people have upheld him and sent him to the legislature by an overwheln ing vote. He loved the character he had established among the people of his he had established among the people of his home.

The gentleman from Bartow had misrepresented him in stating hat he did not want to listen to any minister tunned out by the university. He could excuse him for that on account of indistinct hearing. He wanted to explain that what he meant was that he did not want to listen to any preacher turned out by Athens, because he did not believe could make ministers. God Almighty along could make ministers. God Almighty along could make ministers. He did not want to hear such ministers. He did not want to hear such ministers. "I have meant no reflection on the aged gentleman from Bartow," continued the speaker. "And yet he made an unmerciful assault upon me yesterday afternoon in his speech, simply because I differed from him on this bill. I have been informed by a gentleman from Bartow county that a lot of hungry confederate soldiers called at the house of Dr. Felton during the war one night and asked for shelter and food. That he informed them that they could not sleep in the same house with him and his wife, but if they desired to sleep they could sleep in one of the outhouses on the floor. Mr. Lyons, from Bartow county, told me that this was true."

Dr. Felton—"I denounce that statement Dr. Felton-"I denounce that statement

Dr. Feiton—"I denounce that statement unqualifiedly as a lie."

Mr. Humphries—"If it is a lie, it is between the gentleman from Bartow, and Mr. Lyons, from that county. Mr. Lyons is on the floor and can answer for himself. But I have been told that this was true and that the charge was made acquiret him in the Feiton Locate came. made against him in the Felton-Lester campaign in the seventh district, and that the gentleman from Bartow never denied it."
"Whoever made that statement told a lie,"

"Whoever made that statement told a lie," said Dr. Felton.
"Well," replied Mr. Humphries, "I have it from Mr. Lyons and I use it in quotations. It was told to me by him."
Continuing, Mr. Humphries said that it had been indirectly insinuated by the gentleman from Bartow that because he favored common schools and opposed this bill, that he was in favor of equality between negroes and white virls.

girls. "I denounce any such statement," he said forcibly, "as a damnable lie, and any one making such statement ought to be in h—!! I am not afraid of anything in the world but rattle-snakes, and am afraid of them because they take advantage of a person. No one can intimidate me. I would lose the last drop of blood in my veins before I would be intimidated."

To recapitulate, he urged that he was not fighting this bill because he was hostile to colngnuing this bill because he was notile to col-leges. He loved Athens, and loved all the col-eges, but he loved Georgia more. His friend was mistaken when he thought he was an enemy of higher education.

DR. FELTON REPLIES. Dr. Felton said he would be brief in his remarks and notice only personal allusions in the remarks of the gentleman from Brooks. He had sent to the clerk's desk and read to the house the report of his speech as published in The Constitution of yesterday, giving his re-

The Constitution of yesterday, giving his remarks relating to Brooks county. He also sent to the clerk's desk and had read the stenographic report of Mr. Humphreys allusion to ministers who graduated at the University of Georgia. After the report from The Constitution of his speech was read, and the stenographic report of the remarks of Mr. Humphries had been read, Dr. Felton proceeded. "Now," said he; "you have all the facts before you. The gentleman from Brooks did say he would not have a university graduate to prace to him. The stenographic report says so. I said gesterday I wanted to know where Brooks county was.—I did not say it was out of the state. I wanted to know where Brooks county was—the county that sent this new light—this modern light, of the nineteenth century up here. The county that sent this century up here. The county that sent this modern light here, who would not have a uni-modern light here, who would not have a university graduate preach to him!"

"I wanted to see where Brooks county was on yesterday, and asked for a map, because I wanted to see the sand hill that produced bim. I did not say it in a denunciatory spirit. Two hundred and fifty preachers have graduated at the university and the gentleman can mention only one—George F. Pierce." Dr. Felton said he had mentioued Dr. Benjamin Palmer, Bishop Pierce and Dr. Nunnally, of Mercer, as ministers whom this new, modern light did not care to hear.

"as ministers whom this new, modern light did not care to hear.

"While the representative from Brooks speaks on this bill, his attack is only on the university. He wants the money turned over to the common schools. And I regret it, I can see no other reason why the gentleman favors the common schools and opposes this bill unless he is in favor of educating the white and negro ciris together."

poses this oil unless he is in layor of educating the white and negro girls together."

Mr. Humphries—"I denounce that as an infernal and unqualified lie."

The chairman rapped for order and said he hoped the members would observe decorum.

Dr. Felton next referred to the allusion that he had turned off confederate soldiers from his house without shelter.

"That charge is no new thing to me," he said. "I have heard it before. Bartow county sent more confederate soldiers to the war in proportion to the population than any county in Georgia. In my race for congress against Lester about three thousand votes were cast, six hundred of which were colored. That charge was made in that campaign, and these old confederate soldiers replied to it by giving me fifteen hundred over my opponent, who was a one-armed confederate soldier. That's the way the veterans answered that infamous lie. The gentleman from Brooks has run on to some silent or secret eventy of mine, who has made this charge."

answered that infamous lie. The gentleman from Brooks has run on to some silent or secret enemy of mine, who has made this charge."

Mr. Humphries: "Mr. Lyon is my author."
Dr. Felton said Mr. Lyon had fought him and fought him bitterly. "And yet," he continued, "when we come before the people of Bartow, old Bartow sustains me.

"The gentleman says that not a ray of light has touched the state from this university."
Mr. Humphries—"You misunderstood me. I said that according to the census there were six hundred thousand illiterates in this state, and I made my inference from that?"

"A large number, then, of that six hundred thousand who have never had a ray of light must have come from Brooks county and the constituency of this new light!" "He has discovered a new heavens a med."

come from Brooks county and the constituency of this new light!

"He has discovered a new heaven—a modernized heaven and a modernized hell. When I heard of this new hell I thought to myself where is Brooks county." And when he shall be judged and sentenced on the last day he will say "Oh Lord where is Brooks?"

The Covington Star Re-enters Colonel Liv-ingston and Declares Him "Practically" Announced-Northen and duBignop.

Notwithstanding the desire of Colonel Liv-Notwithstanding the desire of Colonel Liv-ingston that he should not be discussed as in the gubernatorial race yet, his own home paper keeps pushing him to the front, though claiming that its astion is not formally "authorized" to do so. The Star declares that Colonel Livingston has no in-tention of resigning the presidency of the alliance, because "he may be practically (though not an-nounced) in the race for governor. The alliance is not a political organization, and his position as president of it is not a state office." The Star then rock on to say, with all the emphasis of double leads:

goes on to say, with all the emphasis of double leads:

We did not speak upon the authority of Colonel Livington at all, because he has nover "authorized" the Star to say anything about his candidacy for the governorship, except this: "You may say to the governorship, except this: "You may say to the readers of the Star that I have never authorized anyone to say I am a candidate for governor." The Star, however, ufo its own motion and responsibility, does not hesitate to say that Colonel Livingston's position as president of the State Farmers' Alliance, (which, we repeat, is the strongest organization in the state) gives him such prominence before the people of Georgia as to make him a most formidable factor in the gubernatorial race, if indeed it does not place him absolutely in the lead of all competition for the high position of chief magistrate of Our great commonwealth. In saying this, however, we do not mean to be understood as intimating that the Farmers' Alliance have, by any sort of agreement, pledged themselves to support Mr. Livingston as a unit. Far from it. We do not even believe anything of the sort. But, we do base our opinion upon his great popularity with the farmers of Georgia, and believe he is the strongest man with them of any one in the state, for any position within their gift. His election to the presidency of the state alliance, without opposition, seems to us to be sufficient evidence to preave this fact. The Star simply volces public sentiment when it asserts Colonel Livingston has the largest following of any man in the state.

On the other hand, the Perry Journal, printed in "A large number of alliance men do not look with favor upon President Livingston's candidacy for the governorship of Georgia. They say that the alliance did not put him forwards and that he ought not to be at the same time president of the alliance and candidate for governor. These gentles men, and we could name several of them, are right, and Colonel Livingston would do well to consider carefully the opinion they have expressed."

The Comming Circles suggests that "President L.

The Cumming Clarion suggests that "President L. F. Livingston, of the Farmers' Alliance, says he is not yet a candidate for governor. If Mr. Livingston really wants to labor for the best interests of the alliance, we think he should smother his gubernstorial aspirations and remain in the exalted position he now occupies."

There are papers which think the alliance should not permit itself, even by implication, to become mixed up in politics. One of these—the Rome Tribune—says:

Tribune—says;
The alliances in the state are putting both feet down on the alliance candidates for office. This is a sign check full of hope for the permanent usefulness of the alliance. The farmers have at last got their faces set toward the morning.

And the Oglethorpe Echo remarks:
The Farmers Alliance is too good an organization, and has too much at stake, to allow itself to become the tool of politicians. Those who desire to use it for the purpose of stepping into political places should be given the cold shoulder.
One possible result of the "announced" candi-one possible result of the "announced" candidacy of Mr. Northen, and the "practical" candidacy of Colonel Livingston, is predicted in the Elberton Gazette, which says:

Messrs. Northen and Livingston are the avowed candidates for governor at this time. They are receiving a great deal of attention from the politicians now in Atlanta. The general sentiment is that for both to run will divide the alliance vote, which division will result in the defeat of both these gontlemen. This is being talked freely about in Atlanta, and DuBignon's friends assert that he has the best show.

Thomas Hartline's two sons, the eldest, Anderson, aged about 17, and the younger one, Thomas, who is about 17, and the younger one, Thomas, who is about 14 years old, heard their dog barking in the woods near the bouse, and thinking that he had "treed" a squirrel, the oldest boy procured a double-barrelled breech-loading shot-gun and went to the place. He found the quirrel and fired two shots at it, then extrac-ed the empty shells and replaced them with a led one. In the meantime, the other boy, mas, who had followed, picked up a stone and was in the act of throwing at the squirrel, just as Anderson, who was standing behind him, attempted to spring the bar-rels of the gun back to their proper place. By some means the cartridge was exploded and the heavy charge of shot took effect just behind Thomas's ear, making a frightful wound and killing him almost instantly. The Journal gives an account of the colonization meeting held here by the negroes, which was held at the courthouse. There was a large crowd present and they were addressed by Peck and Holmes. Whenever there was an allusion to the colored people being separated from the whites and colonized in a territory where they could have their own government and live under their own vine and fig tree there was enthusiastic applause. The object of the meeting was to stir up interest in ject of the meeting was to stir up interest in the colonization scheme and make it a na-tional movement. IN SOME NORTHWESTERN TERRITORY. The speakers were very conservative in their remarks, nothing of an inflammatory character being said. They said that it was wrong and unnatural for two such distinct races to live together in peace. That God had given every nation a continent of their own; that the African had his home, but that his children had been stolen and abducted and sold into slavery by northern people to the southern people, In the providence of God they had been liberated from bond-A new state of affairs had been brought into existence-the old slaves could live in peace with the whites, but a new generation had come up who did not have the same feeling for one another that the old generation entertained, and owing to certain laws and race discriminations there would be clashing and it was better for sensible people to look at this matter in a proper light, and as God would have it, and agree to a separation of the Ethiopian and Caucasian races. The speakers seemed to apprehend that the rising generation of negroes would not submit to race discrimination by the whites, and that to remain a conflict would be inevitable, and that it was the duty of congress to provide against such a calamity by giving them a territory of their own, and like the Indian territory, enact laws to keep the white man out. A large number signed the petition, memorializing congress to this effect.

LET THE WHITES AID. The Journal, in commenting on the meeting,

Now, as this movement has been started by the colored people, why not the whites join in and aid them to carry out their wishes? This would be a solution of the race problem in the south that would be devoid of bloodshed. It would, indeed, be the part of wisdom to settle this vexed question on such amicable terms

Prominent Citizens Take Hold of the Matter in Earnest.

Athens is to have a fair this fall, and it will probably be just after the Piedmont from them to undertal it, on account of so much bush, while appreciating very high the tender of the ground.

Son yesterday a crowd of Athens gentlemen met in this city and organized themselves for the purpose of bringing about a fair. Mr. W. S. Holtman, a preminent citizen, was elected president; Mr. C. W. Baldwin, vice-president; Mr. C. D. Flauigan, secretary, and Mr. E. T. Brown, treasurer. The main features of the fair will be sports, such as racing, baseball, etc.; also exhibits of all kinds. Mr. Henry W. Grady, of Atlanta, will be asked to deliver the opening speech, and this being his home place, will insure a reception which will surpass even the greatest of all his receptions. The people of Athens and the surrounding section will surely look for Mr. Grady at the opening of her fair. Governor Gordon and Colonel L. F. Livingston will be asked to be present, and speak. The gentlemen in charge have gone to work in earnest, and a great fair is certainly assured.

Athens is to have a city alliance. The farmers living on the suburbs, together with those who are truck farmers and dairymen, and other classes, will join in the organization, which is to take place tomorrow night at the council chamber.

Athens has for some time been talking about a city park, and of late a committee has been looking around for a suitable place. It now comes to light that a capitalist is to buy a large tract of land and present the city with fifteen acres. The land is known as the Luly land, and is just two miles from the center of town. It is full shaded, well watered and in every way suitable for a park.

The Homleide, Cobb, Released Unconditionally.

Augusta, Ga., September 19.——[Special.] Magistrate Davis yesterday held the preliminary trial of Mr. Sam Cobb for the killing of Mr. Isaac Stallings. Finding that his office was not large enough to accommodate the witnesses and spectators, Judge Davis transferred the sitting to the recorder's courtroom. Much testimony, in addition to that heard by the coroner's jury, was taken. It was testified that Stallings held an open knife in his hand; that he advanced on Cobb, who warned him several times; that Cobb was driven to a position from which he could retreat no further, and Cobb struck Stallings only in defense of his own person. Young George Stallings testified that his father had no knifé, and yet it was proved that he picked up-his father's knife where the trouble occurred next morning. Judge Davis said that under the circumstances he could not do otherwise than discharge, Cobb unconditionally.

Tragic Death of Two Persons.

Windsor, Ont., September 19.—About 11 o'clock this morning a man and woman were found dead in Dougall's nursery, where they had been sitting two hours previously. The woman was shot through the heart and the man had a gaping bullet hole in his forehead, from which blood was oozing. Fapers found on his person proves him to be Slias Dilsmore, of Russellville, Ind., and the woman was probably his wife. A revolver with two chambers empty was found near the bodies. A long bush in the vicinity appeared as if some one had taken hold of it with both hands, and pulled it convulsively, but no other traces of struggle of any sort were found. The clothes of the dead persons contained only three cents in money, and a few unimportant papers. The man was apparenty 27 years old and the woman about wearty.

OLD MAN DUGGER

CONTINUES TO FURNISH INCIDENTS TO THE PRESS.

The Blue Ridge Post Gives Another Chapter in the Remarkable Career of a Truly Re-markable Man.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., September 19.-[Special.] As has already been intimated Dugger's career as justice of the peace is one that is frought with more ignorant of the law than of late years, since he has served in the legislature so long he has overcome in a great measure these weak points that are so laughable to the reader. But during his career as justice of the peace he always exercised his better judgment regardless of the law, he tried to make justice district, that he began his official career as justice, and a very prominent citizen and one who claimed some legal ability came to him and told him he would be his legal adviser. (For the purpose of distinction we will call this attorney's name John.) John told Dugger he would advise him rightly in all cases. Dugger told John that he took great pleasure of his court. The first case that came before 'Squire Dugger was a bastardy case. After the evidence was all heard, Dugger gave judgment for $375 for the woman and $375 for the court and its legal adviser, John. The defendant carried the case to the superior court and laid the decision of 'Squire Dugger before Judge Knight. The judge did not agree with the decision, of course, but said while it wasn't the law, it ought to be. 'Squire Dugger, in answer, said: "I went on justice and equity, and not what the law said, and you need not expect a common jackass of the peace to know as much as you."

The second case that came before the 'squire and Colonel John was a young woman accused of murdering an infant. The 'squire listened to the particulars, and then summoned a jury to the particulars, and then summoned a jury to investigate the case. The jury CONSISTED OF TWELVE WOMEN, with Temp Ensley as foreman. The investigation was made and they reported the girl guilty. This staggered Dugger. He didn't know what to do; but John came to his relief, and advised him to have the girl's father arrested and fined in her stead, which he did, and imposed a fine of $25 on the girl's father for the benefit of the jury, and dismissed the court.

for the benefit of the jury, and dismissed the court.

Sometime after that a very complicated case came up, and Dugger called in H. H. Galloway, N. P., to sit with him. After hearing the case and investigating it closely, they retired to make up their verdict; but they disagreed. Galloway prevailed, but Dugger told him he was like Collins's ram—that he had a head of his own, and would never give it up.

After reading these sketches doubtless the reader has already drawn an idea-of Mh. bugger's PENMANSHIP, for if he had any trait that makes him a peer of Horace Greeley it is writing. The grand jury, on examination of his record as J. P., wrote on the fly leaf of his dockett, "Correct as far as can be read."

The day after the election between Dugger and Colonel Chastain, while the authorities were consolidating the returns, a very funny converted occurred between buy and Eil Mooris.

were consolidating the returns, a very funny quarrel occurred between him and Bill Morris, quarrel occurred between him and Bill Morris, a very extreme democrat and respected citizen who lives near Morganton. Morris was a little tipsy that day, and went into the clerk's office and cursed Dugger for being a "hog back," he said: "Dugger, you are a d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and you was elected by a set of d—n hog back, and spill." At this Morris became very angry, but Dugger said: "Now, Bill, I'll brove this to you. You see you married a hog back, and that makes you a half breed, and I'll bet five dollars if you will feel on your back you can feel the bristles." To this Bill objected, but Dugger urged that he draw his shirt, he said he knew they were there two inches long, but Bill declined for reasons best known to himself, and left the room.

TWO MORE WRECKS.

The Discoveries on the Southwestern Railroad Track. ALBANY, Ga., September 19. - [Special.]-

ALBANY, Ga., September 19.—[Special.]—As the passenger train on the Southwestern railroad extension was coming to Albany this morning, it overtook a roadway engine, with two cars off the track, about a mile east of Walker's station. After some delay the trouble was righted, and when the train proceeded a few miles further they came to a freight train, also with two cars off the track. The passengers became weary, and mounting an engine without further delay were brought on to Albany and arrived several hours late. Both of these accidents occurred within four miles of the wreck of the other day. Passengers complain of the bad condition of the track on the extension, and the wretched condition of the old rails in use, though the accidents apon it have been but slight and without loss of life. out loss of life.

PUTTING THE BUILDINGS IN ORDER, The Preparations for the State Fair in Macon

Macon.

Macon, Ga., September 19.—[Special.]—The public property committee of city council met in conference today with Secretary Nisbet in regard to making what improvements are absolutely necessary on the buildings at Central City park for the state fair. Nothing definite was agreed on today, and another meeting will be held in a few days. It is possible that among the repairs will be the rocovering of the exhibition buildings. A large force of hands are now at work on the mile racetrack, and will soon have that in excellent condition. Secretary Nisbet received a large number of entries of exhibits today. He is kept very busy, and from now until after the fair he will not have a breathing spell.

DEATHS IN GEORGIA.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., September 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Myrick, widow of the late General S. H. Myrick, died suddenly at the house of her son, G. D. Myrick, in this county, yesterday evening, Mrs. Myrick was an aged Christian lady, whose acts of kindness have been a balm to many a sufferer, and her death is deeply deplored here. During the war she furnished clothing to the Junior Blues of this city, and in other charitable acts done, won the hearts of the soldiers and people.

SPARTA, Ga., September 19.—[Special.]—The death of Mr. William Stevens, which occurred this morning at his home in Sparta, removes a most worthy and completious offszen. He was self-made, having come to this county from England nearly fifty years ago, and worked out his fortune from extreme poverty. He was skty-six years old. His record was a most homosable one, as a merchant, a citizen and public official. He was throughly modest, but no man had more courage than he in standing by his convictions and in doing what he thought was right. He was at the time of his death a leading member of the Methodist church, and held the responsible position of one of the board of roads and revenues of Hancock county. He was successful in amassing wealth, and his charities were generous and abounding. A few years ago he caused to be placed in the Methodist church here a beautiful memorial tablet in honor of Bishop Pierce. He was a deeply plous man, and his place will not be easily filled.

THE MACON FIRES.

The Loss Will Foot Up $100,000

The Loss Will Foot Up $100,000 in All.

Macon, Ga., September 19.—[Special.]—The fires in Macon last night will foot up a total loss from $90,000 to $100,000. The former figure may doubtless cover the amount, but the exact losses cannot be told until the adjusters have finished their labors. The total amount of insurance on stock is $53,300, and on buildings $27,500. Total $80,800.

The largest losers are Payne & Willingham. Their stock was worth about $35,000. Total insurance, $23,000. A possible loss of $12,000. The building in which they were in belonged to Mrs. Helen O. Newsome, for which she paid $15,000, which of course included the lot. The assessors appraised it at $12,000. Her insurance is $8,500. She may lose three or four thousand dollars.

Parmelee's stock about $25,000, a portion of which was saved. Insurance $21,000. His losses fully covered. The building he occupted belonged to R. H. Plant and J. L. Hardeman, worth about $20,000. Insurance $18,000. The office of the New York Life Insurance company, was in the rear of Parmelee's. Itiwas destroyed. Office building insured for $1,000. Furniture and fixtures insured for $1,000. Furniture and fixtures insured for $1,000. The phad an insurance of $7,500 on their entire stock.

Rogers & Adams, candy manufacturers, lost between $6,000 and $8,000. Insurance $7,300.

Parmelee has already obtained new quarters, and is open for business. Payne & Willingham expect to be in full blast within a week. Price & Maas are already in elegant new quarters. Their loss was on goods that had not been moved from their old stand to their new quarters. Rogers & Adams are about ready for work again, and the New York Life Insurance company has epened up as if nothing had happened. New and handsome stores will be immediately erected on the burnt sites.

Anorher Fire.

This morning about ten o'clock a small boy applied a lighted match to a bale of cotton in front of Willingham's warehouse on second street, and then ran away. The cotton immediately ignited, and soon four bales of cotton that belonged to Mr. W. H. Snowden were in flames. The prompt application of water outed them without serious loss. The cotton was insured. Only last week eight bales of cotton at Price's warehouse were fired in a similar manner.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Last night while the conflagration was raging down town the residence of Mr. George T. Kershaw had a narrow escape from fire. A mosquito netting ignited from a match and made quite a large blaze, which attracted the attention of Mr. Bob Burney and a friend who were passing by on the sidewalk. They rushed into the house and outed the flames. Lace curtains, mattresses. etc., were on fire. But for the timely discovery the house would have been consumed. Mr. Kershaw was not at home at the time of the excitement. similar manner.

Yum! Yum! Yum! From the Marietta, Ga., Journal. From the Marletta, Ga., Journal, Beauty is never more attractive than when it is coupled with blue eyes, darkly-arched eyebrows, rosy cheeks, pearly teeth and a winsome smile. Happy girlhood! How innocent, sweet and sunny your life! untouched by the frosts of bitter trials and sad disappointments. Man never knelt at fairer shrine or fascinated by more bewitching loveliness. How inspiring to ardent manhood. But as the years creep on and age places "silver threads among the gold," you will find that you will be unable to crack chinquepins with false teeth. So, therefore, "enjoy yourselves!"

ELOQUENCE RUN RIOT. THE TAX BILL OPENS THE FLOOD-

The Young Demosthenes From Dade Has An Ovation—Senator Bartlett Bravely Holds Out Against the Storm.

There was fervid eloquence in the senate yesterday.

The two hundred ladies who went to hear President duBignon's speech on the Lee memorial holiday were surprised to find that they had come to hear a tax discussion, and through their gallant friend, Hon. Mr. Ciffon, tried to call the previous riend, Hon. Mr. Ciifton, tried to call the previous question, but without success.

They would have probably remained to the end, however, if they had known what reserve eloquence would ring and reverberate through the galleries when the senator from Dade arose.

The special order having been displaced, the railroad tax bill came up with the favorable report of the finance committee, and also the adverse report of the minority including Senators Bartlett, Massengale, Flizgeraid and Ray.

The committee amendment was adopted and then Senhor Bartlett submitted four amendments, one providing that in the valuation of railroads, regard should be had to the business of the company, one providing that railroads should not be faxed in the first five years after their construction; one providing that the tax shall be one half of one per cent on the net income, divided among the counties interested in proportion to mileage, and one providing that rolling stock shall be taxed where it is located or at the principal office of the company.

Addressing the senate in support of the amendper cent on the net income, divided among the counties interested in proportion to mileage, and outs storiding that rolling stock shall be taxed where it is located or at the principal office of the company.

Addressing the senate in support of the amendments and against the bill as a whole, Senator Bartlett said:

"I am opposed to this bill as it comes from the committee. While I am not opposed to the theory of it and the principle involved, I don't think this measure should meet the approval of the senate. It has attained some popularity because of the assertion that it proposes to tax for the benefit of the counties' property, which bears no part of the public burden, as the law now stands. In that assertion I think the injustice done by the bill and the machinery for the collection of the tax has been lost sight of.

"It proposes to tax the track, rolling stock and personal property and divide it out to the counties, not according to the value of the property located in each county—not to divide the personal property to the counties where it is situated, but to divide it unjustly, not giving to counties entitled to axation their fair share. I oppose it because it is unjust to the clites and to certain railroads, the weak and struggling roads which are the only ones that can be reached by it.

"So far as the Georgia railroad, the Savannah and Augusta, the Southwestern and the Western and Atlantic railroads are concerned, there is and can be no doubt that they are exempt from taxation. The language of their charters is that they shall not thereatter be subject to taxation except one-half of one per cent on their net incomes. Judge Warner pronounced the decision in the Fortieth Georgia that the Central railroad awas not subject to taxation, and Judge Brown declared in equally positive terms that the Southwestern and the Georgia railroads were not subject to taxation, but that the Central road was, I think I can Essert without fear of successful contradiguous has seen fit to burden the young railroads, for one rates than those of a parallel line?" asked Senator Rice.

"They would be compelled to do it or lose money," replied Senator Bartlett. "I happen to be familiar with the theory of some gentlemen who propose that. I don't suppose you could compel them to accept higher freight rates than competing lines, and that is one reason why the burden should not be put on them. The railroad commission would increase their rates, as ratiroads are authorized to make a fair and reasonable return on the investment, but they can't accept the rates and compete with the road protected by its charter and sustained by monopoly. Therefore, you have got to change the same rates, and your little struggling road weighed down by its burdens goes under, and inevitably becomes another link in the great monopoly that has reached out its arms and embraced decorgia."

nopoly that has reached out its arms and embraced Georgia."

Senator Bartlett argued that the policy of the state from the beginning had been to tax railroads only on their incomes, and with that principle in the laws the railroad capital had been invested here. He urged that a railroad was of no value unless it was earning something, and cited the Atlanta and Florida road to Fort Valley, running three trains a week, and almost in the hands of a receiver, while the Central from here to Macon, about the same distance, was earning perhaps $3,000 a mile.

He claimed that the bili was unconstitutional and read authorities and decisions in support of his argument, and maintained that in the division of the rolling stock the country counties, with long mileage would get the tax on personally and rolling stock, which should go in larger proportion to the cities which bould go in larger proportion to the cities which bould go in larger proportion to the cities which built the roads. He also argued that the railroads were public highways as much as turnpikes. Senator Rice followed in a short speech in support of the bill.

which built the roads. He also argued that the railroads were public highways as much as turnpikes. Senator Rice followed in a short speech in support of the bill.

He said all the points made by Senator Bartlett had been tilly argued in committee by able counsel of the railroads, and every time he left the committee room after a hearing be was more firmly convinced that the bill ought to pass. It seemed to him that the whole line of decisions was in favor of the principle of the bill. Its machinery satisfied its friends, and if it would not stand the best of the courts he could not see why the counsel of the railroads fought so hard against its passage. The turn-pike argument, he said, would apply when the senate came to discuss turnpikes. He represented the counts with the largest taxable property and the largest population in the state and he did not object to the division. The expense of the courts in trying railroad cases, he said, would be greater than the sum Fulton county would get from this bill.

When Senator Rice concluded, Senator McCollum got the floor and held it against all comers for some time; supporting the bill with a fervid eloquence that woke up the drowsy members.

He first began on bis notes, but as he warmed with his subject he hit straight from the shoulder, reaching out for Senator Bartlett first with his right and then with his left, bringing the blood every time. When he did turn himself loose everything got out of the way. The stampede could not have been greater if a Texas pony had suddenly been turned loose in the senate. His voice rang out and reverbented like at rumpet; his eyes flashed like electric sparks, and his whole presence was transformed with that eloquent frenzy by which it is said Patrick. Henry was transligured before the Virginia assembly. The effect was wonderful. The senate hung upon his words, and when he sat down the chamber rang with applause, and the senators crowded round with congratulations. For some minutes he held a levve around his desk—it was almost an

He took the broad position that all investment is for the purpose of making money, and in that the railroads did not differ from other species of property.

"I hope and believe," said he, "that the day will soon come in the history our grand old state when the doctrine of special favoritism shall no longer be preached, and the law shall bear equally upon every citizen of our state. It is a fact that the poor people and the common people have always been compelled to bear more than their proportional part of the burdens of taxation. The law is uniform in its operations to protect all persons and property in this state alike. This bill proposes a uniform system of raising the revenue necessary to the execution of the law. It declares that all property under legal protection shall be alike amenable to the same law of taxation, and that one dollars worth of property in the hands of a common clitzen is equal to the same amount of property in the hands of a corporation. In other words, it stands on the high piane of equity and proclaims justicallike for all. The question of money and its operation among the neople is the question of the day—just how capital and labor may exist together in the same atmosphere without antagonizing each other is a question that requires prudence and sagacity. There can be but two theories in the solution of this important question; one proposes that a part of the population shall bear the entire burden and the other proposes that burdens shall rest upon all alike. The true policy is to extend to every citizen the same protection. It is the fundamental principal that underlies the immense foundations of republican government."

Senator McCollum mentioned that the shoriff and four or five citizens of Dade were recently summoned by the railroad to catch some thieves who had stolen a few plugs of tobacco and a few cigars. They chased them over the mountains and tried them in the courts at an expense of $500, not a doilar of which was paid by the corporation, for whose protection the expense penses of corporations, and I do hope the day has come when we shall frame a platform of legal grandeur that is high enough, that is wide enough, and that is strong enough to bear up every citizen who belongs to our state, and may we forever stand on this glided temple and sing to the note of unity, loud enough for heaven to hear and devils to fear, and sing till time shall be no more."

After the evaluation that followed this peroration was over, senstor Massengale claimed the attention of the seasts and squed against the bill.

"He knew that his people did not wish this bill passed. The counties he represented would get no tax. By the map which he showed forty-five counties penetrated by the combined lines, would not be reached by the bill. Of the 3,900 miles of road 1,900 will be exempt from this tax, and he thought the distribution of the tax would be unjust to the cities. When the burden was put on the new roads the commission would raise their rates, and the merchants, and at last the farmers, would have to pay the difference, so what's the use to put the burden on?

Senstor Massengale was followed by Senstor on? Senator Massengale was followed by Senator Shorter who also opposed the bill briefly and pending his argument the senate adjourned till ten o'clock this morning.

After adjournment the conference commit-tee on the Hall resolutions was announced as con-sisting of Senators Hall, Sanford and Little. SPEECH OF HON. MR. HUMPHRIES, Of Brooks, Against the Felton and Atkinson

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the General Assembly: I yield to no man on the floor greater friendship for the girls and boys in orgination of the floor greater friendship for the girls and boys in the Atkinson bill and the Felton bill are unfar and unfriendly to the masses of the people of Georgia. The Atkinson bill proposes to make a branch school to the state university. An own as the G. ris' Industrial school. The Felton bill proposes to give the university at Atkens $55,000 more of the people's money. The state university has been in existence over one hundred years, and during these hundred years, the friends and teachers of the college at Atkens have promised the people that if they would sustain the university that the university would and should educate the people of Georgia. Now, have these men kept their promises? I say they have not. We have in Georgia according to the tenth census, one million and five hundred thousand people. According to this census, about six hundred thousand of our people can neither read nor write. The state university has cost the people one million dollars, and the most of this, the professors have got and the people are not educated. Colleges are good things for teachers, because 'the professors get nearly all the money the people appropriate, and the people get nothing in return. The State university is a farce and a fraud upon the tax payers of Georgia, and in my opinion, the bill of the gentteman from Bartow, and introduced by Dr. Felton, was introduced by him to be used hereafter, as a as delle to ride into congress. The saddle is too expensive to the tax payers of Georgia, and in my opinion, the bill of the gentleman from Bartow, and introduced by Dr. Felton, was introduced by fin to be used hereafter, as a saddle to ride into congress. The saddle is too expensive to the tax payers of Georgia at a cost of $55,000. In fact, this $35,000 smacks strongly of demagogism.

Felton, was introduced by him to be used hereafter, as a saddle to ride into congress. The saddle is too expensive to the tax payers of Georgia at a cost of $35,000. In fact, this $35,000 smacks strongly of demagogism.

Gentlemen of the general assembly. I do not like to think unkindly of a brother member, but in justice to the tax payers of Georgia, I must say there is one member in this house, who, in my opinion, would bankrupt the people of the state, to build up his own political fortune. That member preaches sermons on higher education, with Mr. Boggs, the present chancellor, near his side. If the $35,000 bill passed that will secure and make certain the friendship and influence of Clarke county, including Athens, to aid a certain member in his effort to make great his own political fortune at great coatoum and in the same of the more. In 'other words, they love an office better than they do the pulpit. Members of the general assembly, the men of Georgia can truthfully say that they are the friends of southern girks, and have always been. In proof of this fact, I point you to the graves of southern soldiers at to aklanl cometery, and the cemetery of Marietta, and in every town and village all over Georgia. They went down to their graves to vindication of southern manhood and womanhood, and the sons of our departed and dead heroes are as loyal to the protection of our women and our happy homes as their fathers were. The university of Georgia and branch colleges, are famines or annihitation to the common schools of our state. The common schools should be fostered by the legislature of our state. If the little boys and girls of soldiers, living or dead, are educated, they will have to be taught at the common schools. I ask you to look for one moment, at the inequality there is in the law ast in one visits. We give the boys of Athens $250 per scholar annually, and we only give the poor boys and the girls of the country about eighty cents per scholar annually. Gentlemen, the parents of the boys and girls of the country about eighty cents per scholar annually. Gentlemen, the parents of the boys and girls of the country are forced by laws put upon them, to pay the boys at Athens $250 pers year, while their own children receive only eighty cents per annum. This is a crying shame in the face of justice and an outrage upon the farmers of Georgia. No one but a demagone who is as depraved as a convict felon, will support such a damnable rule of law. My sentiment is repeal this measure, which is is rotton and $50 pers years and the country as a convict felon, will support such a damnable rule of law. My sentiment is repeal this measure, which is is rotton and $50 pers years and the girls of the country and outrage upon the farmers of Georgia. Do you suppose it would be possible, with a sufficient number of men, to build a fine Reed Organ all compite in seven hours? No doubt it would, but it would certainly require a large force of skilled men to do it. Now, if the Estey Organ company had taken so long a time as seven hours they would have had to begun before Columbus discovered America in order to complete 200,000 organs in 1888. They have actually been building their famous Reed Organs forty years, averaging about one organ in thirty-five minutes. And not building them only. They have sold them. No other organ can show such sales. What does it prove? Simply that the ESTEY Organ is the favorite, that it is the best value for the money invested, that it has been the choice with the majority of persons who have purchased organs.

PUBLISHED DAILY, SUNDAY AND WEEKL

DAILY CONSTITUTION delivered to any address in the city

THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION SENT TO ANY ADDRESS ATLANTA, GA., SEPTEMBER 20, 1889.

The Wednesday Night Meeting and Its-Resolutions.

The personal aspects of the meeting of Wednesday night do not concern us in the least. We believe we received more letters on yesterday approving our course than votes were cast condemning it. Every journalist who does his duty must expect to be the subject of adverse "resolutions" once in a while. We are glad that our first experience of this kind comes from protesting against the dragging of helpless negroes from their beds, and lashing them with lawless and merciless hands.

Our attitude on the race question cannot be misrepresented or misunderstood. From first to last we have contended that the white people of the south must control their own affairs-that they must have clear and unmistakable domination, not only because they have larger intelligence and responsibility, but because they are superior to the race with which their domination is threatened. Everywhere and all the time we have defended this, and everywhere and all the time we shall maintain it.

Let us look at this East Point outrage moment. A negro boy had been lynched for brutal assault on a white girl. After the excitement was over, when not a negro was to be seen in East Point, a number of men went through the woods, breaking in the doors of negro cabins, dragging unarmed negroes from their beds, and stripping them and whipping them. This was an outrage-wanton, because there was neither necessity nor excuse for it-lawless, because there is no law for it-worse, because it was visited on helpless and defenseless men-a wrong against Georgia, for it stained her fair name -and against the people of the south, because it affects the general estimate of southern character. We denounced it promptly, and we denounce it again and deliberately. The officers of the law should never rest until they have brought the perpetrators to conviction and to punishment.

Perhaps there never was a time in the world's history when such an outrage might bring wider or more appalling results. The two races of our section are in strained relations. The most irresponsible member of either race may become the hinge on which both races will wheel into opposing factions. A single blow struck in rage or drunkenness, may lead to a thousand that fall in deliberation. A white man may whip a negro. The negro may retaliate by another outrage. The friends of both may become involved. Instantly race antipathies may be developed. Forgetting the justice or injustice of the original cause, its trifling and purely personal character, a whole community may become involved. Right now, more than ever, we should build up a public sentiment that will make such outrages rare and exceptional, if not impossible. A sentiment that will punish those who, thoughtlessly or viciously endanger the public peace and general welfare.

We were never surer of our groundnever more certain of the wisdom and rightness of our cause. We are standing for the sacredly pledged word of the south that justice shall be done to the negro race. We seek to justify the fine courage with which our statesmen from Hill and Stephens to the present have defended us against slander in the House and Senate, and the unshaken faith in the fairness and chivalry of those people that inspired themlacking which they would have sat in enforced silence with bowed heads. We seek to prove the falsity of the charges with which, in press and pulpit and forum our enemies in the north have poisoned that section against us. We stand for law and order and peace and harmony between the two races that must live together, whether In harmony or otherwise. We argue and plead for such prudence and patience, and tolerance and fairness as shall carry us with clean hands and approving conscience and unquailing hearts into the great and awful shadow that threatens us, if at last, in spite of our best endeavor, into that shadow we Defending these things, arguing for these things, we are not disturbed by such resolutions as were passed on Wednesday night.

We know that they do not represent the sentiment of this community. We are confident that eight-tenths of the people of Atlanta approve our course and disapprove the temper of those resolutions. But were this proposition reversed, we should not hesitate or waver in the course we have marked out as the wise and right and just

As to that meeting, are glad that it was called. Though its purpose miscarried, its proceedings are not without a lesson that will impress itself on the people of this community, of this section, and of this

A Southwestern Movement. In several localities in Arkansas and Miseissippi the planters are discharging their black field hands and replacing them with white labor. One planter in Hinds county, Mississippi, has filed his application at Cas-tle Garden for fifty white families, and in ne district in Arkansas 300 white families a peaceful revolution. They say that the negroes when they find themselves out of work will seek other fields. Their rights as American citizens embrace the obligation to take care of themselves, and they will have it to do.

It is too early to predict the consequences of this proposed revolution in labor. Unettle the race problem, but there are difficulties in the way. Thousands upon thousands of southern whites insist that negro labor suits them best, and they are not likely to change their opinion in a hurry. Just at present the negro population of the southwest is probably increasing instead of A Great Political Machine.

There are still a few white men in the south-republicans, of course-who are fatuous enough to believe that the Chicago platform meant what it said relative to the repeal of the excise tax on tobacco and

The platform is explicit enough in its declarations, but, as THE CONSTITUTION pointed offt long ago, the internal revenue law is a republican measure in all its parts, and was framed for the purpose (1) of raising money to carry on the war, and (2) for the purpose of organizing a powerful political machine with ramifications in every state and district in the union.

Is it to be supposed that the republicans in congress, knowing the power and influence of the internal revenue political machine, will abolish it, or even cripple it? Such a supposition would be foolish indeed. The republicans not only propose to retain the internal revenue system, but they propose to make its retention necessary by squandering the surplus. Corporal Tanner made a serious move in this direction, and succeeded in making the surplus appear like a dream of the past. But for the noise he made with his mouth. Corporal Tanner would be in office now. It is not necessary, however, that he should be there. Tannerism is the spirit and essence of republicanism, and the republican policy will be carried out to the letter. We observe that some of the southern republicans, whose constituents are more or ess affected by the tobacco tax, are threatening to flock off in a little party by themselves if the tax is not abolished. It is said, however, they will refuse to vote for any man for speaker who is not in favor of th repeal.

They may accomplish something by bulldozing their northern party colleagues in this way, but nothing is more certain than that the republicans will never, of their own free will and accord, consent to cripple the great internal revenue political machine.

THE removal of Tanner is having some effect in Ohio. Foraker finds that he is com pelled to antagonize the president in order to ecure the votes of the Grand Army men The G. A. R. political machine is a big thing.

TANNER has no legs. Perhaps that is the THERE is one fact that the republicans should not forget-namely, that there are more democrats in this country than there are republicans. This fact will be emphasized in 1892 THE Jersey republicans have nominated E. Burd Grubb for governor. That name ought to be worth thousands of votes to the demo-

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: What was the trength of the federal and confederate armies?

The enlistments in the federal armies 2,750,000, and in the navy a sufficient number to swell the grand total to 3,000,000, the biggest army ever raised by any nation in any cause. The strength of the federal army at the close of the war in May, 1885, was 1,000,000, showing that nearly 2,000,000 men had been killed or placed hors du combat. The actual killed and died were 301,000. The pension relis a quarter of a century after the war is over show nearly 1,000,000 wounded who still survive. The total enlistments of the confederate survive. The total emisteness of the confederate army, from beginning to end of the gigantic struggle, were only 603,000, but never more than 403,000 were enrolled at any one time, while 200,000 were the most ever available at any one time for active service. Of this number $100,000 were killed active service. Of this number 100,000 were killed and died; 200,000 of the 600,000 enrolled were militia and home guards who never saw any active service

CLEVELAND, Ohio, September 19.—It is now believed that the steam launch "Leo," which left Loraine, twenty-six miles west of here for this port last Sanday afternoon, was blown up about three o'clock Monday morning. Three bodies have been recovered and several hundled men and boys are hunting for the other six. This morning the body of Fred Pelow was discovered floating in a private breakwater, a few miles west of this city. The body was almost nude and what clothing remained was burned. His face was burned and bruised and his watch had stopped at 3:13. The watches on the other two bodies had also stopped at about that hour. There were forty gallons of naptha in the hold of the Leo which was to be used as fuel. It is believed that it exploded Monday morning just when the storm was at its height. The lake is very wild yet and the search for the remaining bodies is attended with considerable danger, Drowned.

A PRETTY WEDDING AT THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

Carrie Burbank Married to Mr. Alf Perry-Other News About Atlantians and Their Friends.

Miss Carrie Burbank was married to Mr. All. C. Perry yesterday, the ceremony being per-formed at the First Methodist church at 5 o'clock in he evening.

The wedding was simple and beautiful and imorgan, presided over by Mrs. Arthur Richards, gave forth sweet melody. Then as the first tones of the "Lohengriu" march were heard, the groom with his best man, Mr. C. S. Northen, entered from the ante-room, and the bridal party started down the left aisle. First came the ushers, Mr. George Clark and Mr. Victor Smith, Mr. Ed Northen and Mr. Forcest Adair. Then Miss Miriam Armstrong and Mr. Samuel Burbank, Miss Ella Gillam and Mr. Bass, Miss Julia DeLoach and Mr. Joe Sharp. Then the bride with her sister, Miss Lettle Burbank.

At the altar they met Mr. Perry and Mr. Charlie At the altar they met Mr. Perry and Mr. Ch.

On Wednesday, at 5:30 p. m., in the Methodist church of Chipley, were married Mr. R. H. Dun-lap to Miss Georgia Layfield, both of this city. Rev. J. H. Eakes performed the ceremony in his usual impressive manner. The wedding party repaired at once to the Commercial hotel, of this city, where an elegant repast was served at 7 p. m., after which liey, went to the residence of Mr. J. L. Alien, where they will reside for the present. The occasion was one of the most brilliant weddings in the history of Chipley. The church was handsomely decorate with ferns and flowers. The arch over the brida couple, covered with evergreens, and the bell of roses and geraniums dangling from the center, made a striking appearance. The bride is one of the most accomplished young ladies in western Georgia. She is the daughter of Judge N. H. Layfield, a wealthy farmer of this section. The bride is extremely lovely. The groom is well known in business circles, and stands high in all that is noble and nariest. He is experimented at the Method. and upright. He is superintendent of the Method-ist Sunday school. He has a large number of friends throughout the state.

WARRENTON, Ga., September 19.—[Special.] Long before 12 o'clock Tuesday, the time appointed for the marraige of Professor J. Frank Little, of Sparta. to Miss Mamie Burkhalter, of Warrenton, the Methodist Episcopal church was crowded with friends and spectators. Owing to an accident the train upon which were expected relatives and triends of the groom, did not arrive until an hour late, which caused the ceremony to be delayed. The church was artistically decorated. On each side of the alfar was an arch. In the center a large heart made of white roses and pierced through by a Cupid's ar-row was suspended. At the back of the altar was magnificent display of rare and beautiful flowers. The church was darkened and was lit by candle tanding in silver candelebras ornam

At half past one o'clock the approach of 'he bridal party was announced by the strains of the wedding march skillfully executed by Professor Guttenberger, of Macon. The couple, Mr. Henry Little, of Sparta, with Miss Ammic Wicker, of War-renton, entered the door at the left, and took their position on the same side of the Mr. Walter Branham, of Atlanta, Miss Lillie Hall, of Warrenton, entered and stood on the right. The first couple was followed by Mr Juddie Pilcher, of Warrenton, with Miss Marian Little, of Sparta. The second couple was followed by Mr. Sassanet Little, of Sparta, with Miss Bessie Miller, of Augusta. Then the lovely bride entered the left, leaning on the arm of the handsome groom and stood directly under the fleart. Rev. Mr. Love joy performed the ceremony in a most solemn and mpressive manner.

The happy couple left for Sparta at 2 o'clock, where they enjoyed a reception at the home of Indee Little. From there they will leave for Macon and spend a short time. They are prevented from making en extensive tour owing to the fact that Mr. Little is professor in the school here, and he will have to resume his duties in a short time. There were a number of elegant presents tendered by friends and relatives.

THE WEDNESDAY NIGHT MEETING. President Hill Has a Word to Say-Mr.

Bateman's Paper.
The court house meeting of Wednesday night was about the only thing discussed in the city

On every side it was talked of. The action of the meeting was almost universally con demned. PRESIDENT HILL TALKS.

President W. P. Hill, of the Young Mon's Democratic league says: "I think it proper to make plainer than appeared in this morning's Constitution the connection of Mr. Grady with the call for the league meeting especially as there seems to be for some reaso a purpose to make him responsible for it. I determined to call the meeting of the league upon consultation with members. I met Mr. Grady on the street and told him what we were going to do and asked him what h thought about it. He replied that he thought it would be a good thing for the young democrats to put themselves against violence and disorder, and thought it would have a good effect. I wrote the call and sent it into THE CONSTITUTION and Mr. Grady wrote the short interview with me which preceded the call

"The day before the meeting Mr. Grady sugested that perhaps as certain names had been mentioned in a public order of the court, that it might be considered pre-judging a case that was already practically made, and thought perhaps it would be well to postpone the meeting until this case had been disposed of. replied that I had seen Mr. Northen, who had brought that view to my attention, and that I thought Mr. Northen, as a friend of the gentlemen who had been mentioned in the court was satisfied that no injustice would be done them by a general action. Indeed, Mr. Northen afterwards stated that he was willing to accept the resolution which had been prepared, but Mr. Arnold was not. Mr. Grady never saw any resolutions that were

What do you think about the meeting?" "I am glad that it was called, because I have done my duty. What I have heard on the streets today convinces me that the people of this city are almost unanimously with us. I am satisfied that the people of Atlanta are committed at East Point."

MR. BATEMAN'S PAPER.

The paper read by Mr. J. N. Bateman before the meeting was a calm and conservative review of the question which came up before the meeting.

Judge Bateman began his speech by saying Judge Bateman began his speech by saying that he dld not understand that the meeting had been called to denounce the brutal and unmanly conduct toward some of the colored citizens at East Point. He also denied that the object of the meeting was to establish a political policy by which the democratic party might in the future return to power. He then stated that to approve and not condemn the action of the party who took from their homes these colored men and whipped their homes these colored men and whipped them like brutes, without cause, would be them like brutes, without cause, would be false to the principles advocated by the party. He said that the country was the better for having two political parties if they were equal in intelligence and respectability. He then explained that the democratic party in the south was made up of the brains, the honor, the decency and the respectability of the community while the republican party, or the cency and the respectability of the community while the republican party, or the active majority of it, was composed of brainless men without the decency and intelligence of gentlemen, and without the honor of a thief, he claimed that it was composed of carpetbaggers, who at home could not obtain the office of dog catcher. He stated also that there were republicans for whom he had the highest respect, but these he said were republicans from conviction. He attributed the recent troubles in the south to President Harrison's failure to recognize the President Harrison's failure to recognize the best men of his party in the south and placing in office the lowest class of carpetbaggers.

He spoke highly of the negro as a working man, and stated that he was wanted in all the vocations of life, and as a law-abiding citizen.

He, however, protested in vigorous words against social equality. This question, he claimed, came only from the infamous carpet bagger. In conclusion he advised both white and black to live in peace and put to naught the infamous creatures who would disturb the

ARSON AND ROBBERY.

Three Negroes Arrested by the Police and Others to Follow. Wednesday night Captain Manley, Sergeant English and Patrolmen Barnes and Chanler made a pretty good haul. Captain Manley has been working on the case for some time.

It will be remembered that some weeks ago the residence of Mr, Wiley Jones, on Formwalt street, was set on fire and robbed of a quantity of household goods and ladies' dresses.

Wednesday night a negro woman named Katie Compton was arrested with a quantity of the goods in her possession, Bob Mitchell and Bill Moore, two other negroes, were also arrested.

Mrs. Jones identified several of the dresses found in Katie's possession, and it is highly probable that the trio, with several others, will be convicted.

Officers Elected.

The stockholders of the Georgia Stove and Range company met last night and organized by electing the following officers: G. B. Everett, president; W. I. Zachry, vice-president; A. L. A big tribe of Comanche Indians and a gang of wild, reckless, hard riding cowboys are in camp on the Piedmont exposition grounds. Sandy Cohen brought the aggregation in yesterday.

The Indians and cowboys compose the Wild bitions under the management of Pawnee Bill and Comanche Bill during the exposition. They are all trained to the work in hand, and nen made a ten strike when he se the combination.

The show reached Atlanta yesterday at noon on the East Tennessee, accompanied by Mr. Cohen. The hustling solicitor quickly put his braves and squaws into wagons and led the parade to the Kimball. As the wagons moved along everybody stopped to look at the feather-bedecked, painted savages. They were a novelty in Atlanta.

Instantly a crowd gathered around the wagons in front of the Kimball to gaze upon the noble red men of the forest. They were a tough, hard-looking set, but that did not diminish the crowd. The Indians sat in the wagons and, gazing at their admirers, laughed

But no one who heard them will ever tell a

Mr. Cohen soon started his buggy towards the exposition grounds, and as the paradomoved out Peachtree street it attracted the attention of everybody. Men, ladies and children all stopped to look at the new citizens until they were out of sight. Along with the Indians were several cowboys and Commanche. Indians were several cowboys and Commanche Bill and the interpreter, all of whom proved as interesting as the Indians. After they as interesting as the Indians. After they reached the grounds, the Indians were driven to the poultry and pet stock building, and in a few seconds every one had dropped his bundles upon the floor.

Then they began to scatter over the grounds, but they did not seem to want to mix with the pale faces. Some went area.

the grounds, but they did not seem to want to mix with the pale faces. Some went upon the race track, others into the grand stand and the race track, others into the grand stand and others dropped upon the grass. In a short time they began to attract the attention of persons out for a drive, and no carriage or buggy passed the building without stopping and studying the lay out. Mr. Cohen superintends the work by talking to a small Indian boy about nine years of ago. The lad was dressed in the usual Indian style, and proved himself smart enough to catch the solicitor for four or five quarters. "That boy," said Mr. Cohen, "is one of the finest riders in his tribe. He can ride all over finest riders in his tribe. He can ride all over a horse, and he's as sharp as a brier. But as little as he is, he is the biggest gambler in the party. He sits down at the games with the old braves, and loses or wins with the same independent air."

Freaks of the Weather.—The mercury has been playing peculiar tricks for the past forty-eight hours. It began Tuesday night by taking a drop-of twenty degrees. Since then it has been gamboling up and down the glass tube in a way that has made the manager of the weather on top of the Trader's bank building open his eyes with astonishment. For a short time yesterday morning the mercury showed a disposition to return to the point it .occupied during August. It changed its mind however and at two o'clock the thermometer showed only sixty-one degrees of heat. By eleven o'clock the temperature had fallen to fifty-six and at midnight it was fifty-two with a strong downward tendency.

Even the man who is paid by the government to know all about the weather is uncertain if there. is uncertain if there will be a return of warm weather and or if the early fall which was predicted has set in. A great many young men were seen on the streets last night with their coat collars turned up, evidently devising some means of redeeming their light overcoats from the keeping of their avancular relative.

ng to Get Into a Rox Car to Get a Free lide to McDonough—William M. Dele-paris Shot and Mortally Wounded.

"A man killed," was the report that came to the police station yesterday morning. William M. Delemar was shot and mortally wounded by J. T. Etheridge in the suburb known as Pittsburg.

At 12:40 Delemar died of his wounds, and shortly afterwards Mr. Etheridge came to the city and surrendered himself to the police.

Late yesterday afternoon Dr. J. C. Avary, coroner of Fulton county, summoned a jury of inquest, and the remains were examined and the statement of the attending physician made, after which the jury adjourned to meet at the courthouse today at 2:30 o'clock.

THE STORY OF THE TRAGEDY.

Mr. Etheridge made a statement yesterday afternoon. He said that between nine and ten o'clock Wednesday night he was on duty at the East Tennessee freight depot yards, as a wstchman,, having been employed a little more than a week ago.

With him was Mr. Greer, another watchman, and the two divided the long stretch of yards between them, Mr. Greer taking the upper portion and Mr. Etheridge the lower part.

It is a lonely watch out there, far from the business or residence portions of the city, and the men go well armed.

charged heavily with buckshot.

As Mr. Etheridge was patrolling his portion of the yard Mr. Greer, barefooted, came running to where he was, and told him that there were three men trying to enter a box car, and asked for his assistance.

Mr. Ethridge pulled off his shoes and slipped up near the place where the men were. Both of the watchmen could see their dark forms outlined against the sky.

BREAKING THE SEAL.

Mr. Greer took the inside of the line of cars, that were standing on the outside track, and Mr. Etheridge the outside next the old field that lies alog the road at that point.

Suddenly the flash of a match revealed to Etheridge the form and face of one of the men who had stopped and was examining the seal of a car.

The other two had gone on down the track.
Slipping cautiously forward, Etheridge got within thirty feet of the man, and the latter struck another match. He broke the seal of a

The man under the car made no reply.
"Can't you give him a shot from that side, Greer?" asked Etheridge, and continuing called again to the man under the car: "Come out, I say, or you'll get a load of buckshot."
"All right, I'll come out."
"Throw up your hands," called the watchman, as the man emerged from the man.

The latter had his gun presented, but quick as a flash the other man grabbed it by the barrel, and then began a struggle in the dark-barrel, and then began a straight mess.

The struggle was of short duration.

The man turned the gunbarrel loose with the right hand, raised his pistol, and as he did so Mr. Etheridge was enabled to fire as he thought with a chance of taking some effect. He pulled the trigger, and at the same instant his assailant fired his pistol.

Neither shot took effect, but the man released the gun entirely, and quick as thought Mr. Etheridge let drive with the other barrel.

The man turned and fied.

A TRAIL OF BLOOD.

The man turned and fied.

A TRAIL OF BLOOD.

Mr. Etheridge had recognized the man as Will Delemar, a former watchman who had been employed by the road.

The two watchmen followed the bloody trail made by the man for a short distance, and found a British bulldog pistol a few steps from where he stood when the shot was fired.

Mr. J. H. Bryant, an East Tennessee rail-road conductor, appeared upon the scene about this time, and went in quest of the wounded man, leaving the watchmen at their posts.

Some time afterwards, he came back and told them that it was Delemar, and that he was badly wounded.

Mr. Etheridge remained at his post until yesterday, when he learned of Mr. Delemar's Death, and went to the police station and surrendered himself.

nimself.
That is Mr. Etheridge's statement, and it was corroborated by Mr. Greer.

BLEEDING TO DEATH.
Mr. Bryant was seen, and told what he knew

Mr. Bryant was seen, and told what he knew of the tragedy.

He heard the shots fired, and was under the impression, as were several others, that there were four or five shots.

Thinking that there might be a hand to hand fight down there, he ran to the scene, but it was all over and there was nothing to indicate the character of the affray, but the splashes of blood that led away from the scene of the shooting.

He noticed that the pistol had been picked up, had every chamber loaded.

Going across the old field he came to a house on Gate City street, half a mile from the scene of the shooting, and occupied by Miss Hattie Thornton and her sister, Miss Minnie Thornton, sisters of Delemar's wife.

There was a light inside, and when he entered he found Miss Minnie stretched on a bed in the front room.

tered he found Miss Minnie stretched on a bed in the front room.

She had fainted.

In the rear room lay Will Delemar, with his right arm hanging off the bed.

AGHASTLY WOUND.

The arm was covefed with blood, and just below the elbow was a ghastly wound.

The muscles on the inner side of the arm had been torn away, leaving a cavity four or five inches long and three or four inches wide.

Delemar was conscious, but very weak.

four or five inches long and three or four inches wide.

Delemar was conscious, but very weak.

When asked how it occurred, he said that he intended going down to McDonough to get some money from his people to put up as collateral with the street railway company so that he could obtain a regular driver's place on a car. Haaing no money he decided to get in a box car and get a free ride to McDonough. While trying to find a car he was hemmed up by the watchmen. He said that he dodged under the car, but they pushed him too close and one of them called them out. As he came out one of them thrust a shot gun in his face and fired.

The first shot missed, but he fired a second time. The dying man said that he felt that his arm was shot all to pieces and he ran toward the house of his sisters-in-law, that being nearer than his own homes at 106 McDaniel street.

After this short statement the wounded

After this short statement the wounded man began sinking rapidly.

Mr. Bryantdid what he could for the sufferer. Dr. Hayes was summoned, and did all that he could do, placed a tourniquet on the arm, and he and his brother, Dr. J. G. Hayes, decided that amputation would not be necessary. They left, Dr. Hall came and looked at the man and saw that all had been done that could be done, and went home.

Later in the night Mr. Bryant saw that Delemar was getting cold and evidently dying. He tried to obtain another physician and finally found Dr. Love.

After daylight Mr. Bryant came into the city and reported the facts to the police. Delemar became unconsciods after his first statement, and the few words that he muttered after that were delirious.

MRS. DELEMAR'S STORY.

MRS. DELEMAR'S STORY.

Mrs. Delemar said that her husband and she came from the country a year or two ago. He obtained employment at the glass works, at first, but on December 30, 1888, he secured a situation with the East Tennessee road, as night watchman. After this short statement the wounded

Wednesday evening he left home after supper, saying that he was going to beat a ride in a box car to McDonough, where his relatives live, and where he could secure the money, He buckled on his belt, in which he carried his pistol, and left. She knew the pistol and said it was a British bulklog.

That was the last she saw of him until he died. He never became conscious after she came to him, and all he said was just before he died:

"Catch me, sister; I'm shot!"

THE DOCTOR'S STATEMENT.

Before the coroner's jury Dr. I. B. Hayes explained that when he first saw the wound he observed that the arteries were not cut and the bleeding was from the voins.

For that reason he thought that the man might recover, and that the arm might be saved. He dressed the wound as well as possible, applied a tourniquet, and after considerable trouble obtained a stimulant.

Yesterday morning he saw that the man was sinking, and that his death was caused by the shock as much as by the loss of blood.

shock as much as by the loss of blood.

THE FUNERAL.

The remains were taken in charge by Mr. H. M. Patterson, who removed the body to his undertakinging establishment.

The body will be sent to Delemar's relatives in McDonough at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Delemar twa 28 years of age, and came of an excellent family. He had been married eight years.

Mr Etheridge lives on Gate City street with his father. He is a young man, unmarried, and bears a good reputation.

Ho was employed as night watchman on Monday a week ago.

The inquest will be concluded today, and the investigation will be thorough and searching.

A COMMITTEE OF TEN.

The Legislature Will be Represented at

Mr. Thurman moved that a special committee of ten be appointed to attend the reunion from the house.

Mr. Foute, of Bartow, opposed the resolution. Twenty-five years ago he had business there, but there was no barbecue then. He ate roast turnips for breakfast that morning, and thefore night some fellow shot him in the foot. He didn't think that the legislature, or a committee, should leave their work to attend a barbecue. He loved those men who were trying to make peace since the war, and despised those who were forever trying to keep up the bitter feelings of the war.

Mr. Smith, of Gwinnett, said he hoped the resolution would be adopted. It was a voluntary movement on part of the federal and confiderate soldiers to convert the battle ground of Chicamanga into a national park, to commemorate the heroism of those who fell on each side for the cause they loved and for which they were willing to die. Shall we let the federal soldier make and preserve all the history of the late struggle while we ignore the sacrifices of our noble heroes and do nothing to perperpetuate the history of those whose bones lie bleaching on a thousand hills. What will coming generations say of those of us who survive the struggle that we made no effort to transmit to them the part we took in our great civil war.

Dur chief executive, the gallant Gordon, will be there. Cau this legislature not appoint a committee of ten that this body may be represented in an official way along with the executive of this great state whose soil drank the biood of thousands of brave men whosell at Chicamanga. Our people are not a parsimonious people. They are not stingy. They will inforse the action of this house in sending a committee of ten to participate in that grand occasion. He hoped that this house, by a small degree of demacoguery, will not disgrace the offspring of those who gave up their lives at Chicamanga by refusing to accept the invitation and sending a small committee along with the governor. It will not cost the state anything.

Mr. Thurman

wouldn't go back to Hart, but would go to Sand monutain.

Mr. Harrell, of Decatur, moved to table the resolution. Lost.

TMr. Lewis, of Hancock, offere I a substitute for Mr. Thurman's resolution that the house accept with thanks the invitation from the city of Chaitanooga to attend the reunion, and regrets that public business prevents an acceptance in a body.

Mr. Lewis favored his resolution. It was lost.

Mr. Thurman's resolution was adopted.

Several opponents of the bill made the point that the gentleman could not change his vote.
The speaker said: "Did the gentleman from Houston vote no under a misapprehension?" Mr. Holtzclaw—"I did not!"

The speaker ruled that he could vote.

This was greeted with applause, as it was thought the bill had passed.

Mr. Smith, of Gwinnett, protested against Mr. Hood being allowed to vote.

In the meantime, it was learned that Mr. Holtzclaw had been recorded as voting yes, when the speaker had ruled he could not hange his vote.

This put the bill back to eighty-seven votes.

Ar. Jenkins, of Harris, had also been, through a mistake, recorded as voting yes, when he was absent. This lost the bill another vote, and its friends gave up hope of passing it.

Several members demanded that the result be announced. After verifying the vote the speaker announced the vote—ayes 86, nays 55, and the bill was lost for want of a constitutional majority.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, September 19.—Late rate cutting in the west, together with continued fear of tight the west, together with continued lear of agit money still keeps the stock market dull and trans-actions were still smaller than on any day of the present week. For the most part it was a trader's market, pure and simple, and in the absence of any important influence to affect the course of prices they were churned up and down over the narrow range fluintation; in a great, majority of the list range, fluctuations in a great majority of the list possessing little or no significance. Coal stocks were the strong features of the day. Tennessee coal and Jersey Central led an upward movement, which extended to 2 per cent in the former and 1½ in the latter, though improvement in others was but frac-

THE COTTON MARKETS.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE.
ATLANTA, September 19, 1889.
Consolidated net receipts loday 22, 282 bales; exports to Great Britain 8, 299; to France—; to continent 2,025; stock 171,436.
Below we give the opening and closing quotations ejection futures in New York today: 163

538 515 1,053 988 The market opened here with all selling orders concentrated on October, and the decline of 15 points in that month, against 5 in New York, is attributable to the very large amount of interest in that month that was sold. The situation, so far as spots are concerned, is quite the same as it has been for several days, as quotations were unchanged, although the market was quoted easy. Octobers at the close are 8 points under spots, while November, December and January are respectively 107, 109 and 108 points under spots. Our stock of cotton here is in presses 19,999 bales, of which 7,000 bales have been sold within the last three days, showing that most of the cotton that has arrived here has been for though shipment; that much that has been for sale here has been rapidly absorbed at advancing prices within a few days. Whether or not the differences between spots and futures will be maintained, the next few days will determine. Port receipts are 22,000 bales, but we stated in ours of yesterdar.

tained, the next few days will determine. Port receipts are 22,000 beles, but we stated in ours of yesterday the movement is not what it should be, considering the reports about picking, and we attribute it to a somewhat concerted movement on arket the crop less freely than in previous years, but to distribute it over a period of four, five or six months instead of two or three, as heretofore. Should the same polley be pursued next month it is probable spots will be maintained at or near present prices.
F. o. b. offers were again scarce today, and our telegram from Pine Bluff says: 'Market is wild. Could offer us nothing.'' Our foreign letter says Liverpool is counting on 7½ million bales, and unless we have it prices wont remain long at 5% or the fall months. Stocks of goods and yarns in Manchester are exhausted, and the power of consumption never greater. Business generally in England is in good greater. Business generally in England is in good shape. The trade demand in October and Novem-

Spots here are easy; sales 2,000 bales; middling 10 11 16c. GLENNY & VIOLETT. GLENNY & VIOLETT. NEW YORK, September 19.—[Special.] — Henry Clews&Co's circular on the cotton market today says: Liverpool did not send over any great amount of comfort to the bull element today. Options opened there steady partially 1-64d advance, closing barely steady 1-6id up, September and the remainder of the list at last night's prices. Spot sales 7,000 bales with tone firm and unchanged. Our opening was very tame considering the effrontery exhibited yesvery tame considering the circulary exhibited yes-terday, and after strenuous efforts towards sustain-ing the market was indulged in prices gradually eased off on heavy selling for both long and short account, October and November coming in for a greater share of the decline, as the interest in those greater share of the decline, as the interest in those options is believed to be onormous. The close is steady at 2 points decline on September, 8 on October and from 5@6 on the other months. Private telegrams from New Orleans report worms in Louisiana, but we don't apprehend any great damage. Our correspondents in Montgomery, Alabama, are sending flattering reports of the crop in that state. Southern markets steady to firm, Galveston and Norfolk ½c and Mobile, Charleston and Memphis 1-16c. Receipts at all the ports today 22,252 bales, against 15,502 bales last year. Receipts since September 1 235,548 bales, against 17,381 bales last year. John M. Ernest.

NEW YORK, September 19—The following is the New York Sun's cotton review: Futures opened with considerable strength, Liverpool again coming a little firmer, but there was a lack of demand, and prices gave way 162 points. The bears, however, showed no courage, being deterred by reports of low temperature in the Atlantic states and in the northern belt, out of which some frost talk arose. Still, after the noon call there was an irregular decline, he most decided in October options.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO. September 19—The interest in the wheat market continues unabated. Bull news again predominated, and, in fact, the only favorable circumstance to which hears could point was a continued light outward movement from seaboard ports. Twenty-two thousand bushels of No. 2 was worked off, and the same house took fifty thousand kushels of No. 1 hard in Duiuth. The news from abread was all favorable for holders. The opening here was ½c off for leading futures, and under a strong selling pressure for the earty market, receded ½6 more, but the scalping crowd flound the odds against them, and after a realizing by local and St. Louis longs, was over, prices started up with unmistakable indications of inherent strongth in the market. From inside figures there was an advance of ½6½c, and the final closings showed a net gain for the day of ½c in December and May and ½6½c in other deliveries.

An active business was transacted in corn, and the feeling developed was easier, the bulk of the trading being at lower prices. The frosts predicted for last night-did not materialize, and as the weather was more uniavorable, the market opened heavy, a shade under yesterday's closing prices, and under tree offerings declined ½6½c. The longs sold out and the shorts covered, and put on tresh lines. The feature was a rather free selling of near futures and buying of May by a prominent trader, which widened the difference between near and off futures about ½c more than yesterday. The market closed ½6½c lower than yesterday in the market closed ½6½c lower than yesterday. The market closed ½6½c lower than yesterday. Mayor's Office, September 19, 1889.—To the Mayor's Office, September 19, 1889.—To the Members of the General Council.—Gentlemen: You granted at your last meeting a wholesale liquor license to John W. Florence, who is a minor, as I am informed by a gentleman who knows the fact. It is the policy of this city to keep minors and liquor far apart, as shown by the ordinance prohibiling them from entering barrooms and forbidding the sale of liquor to them, and I am certain that your body would not have granted the license if you had been apprised of the applicant's minority. Under the amendment to the charter, which requires the mayor to approve or veto within four days after the meeting of the council, as a cannot approve it, I veto it. Respectfully submitted,
John T. Glenn, Mayor.

They Are Taking Money.

The tax receiver and the tax assessor's offices are busy places just now, and the money is flowing in rapidly. The receipt is issued in the assessor's office, and a constant stream pours over the hallway to the receiver's office, where the money is paid in and the receipt is signed by Receiver Griffin. The fall working force of both offices are in constant demand.

A Freight Wreck. A Freight Wreck.

The East Tennessee passenger train which is due in Atlanta at 7:35 p. m. from Macon and the south, had not arrived at an early hour this morning. The delay was caused by the wreck of five freight cars. A broken truck caused the cars to jump the track while passing the Rag Hill cemetry jut outside of Macon. The wreck occurred at 40 clock, and two hours later the wrecking train left Atlanta to aid in clearing the track. The train scheduled to leave Atlanta at 6:10 left on time, and will bring the dela of passengers to Atlanta.

Popular Grocer on Peachtree Street Offer $25.00 For the Best Loaf of Bread Made of

Mr. J. J. Duffy, one of the most popular retail grocers in the country, comes to the front this morning and offers $25 for the best loaf of bread made out of Duffy's Superlative flour, and exhibited at the coming Piedmont exposition. This is quite a liberal offer, and will, no doubt stimulate a great many people in the culinary line. The flour that Mr. Duffy has been selling—Duffy's Superlative—is said by those who have tried it, to be the very best. This being the case, Mr. Duffy, in making this offer to the ladies of Atlanta, will doubtless secure a large patronage for his flour. It is to be remembered that this loaf of bread is to be made only from Duffy's Superlative, and no other flour will be brought into competition. Mr. Duffy is not afraid to compete with other flours, but feeling that his flour is the best of all, offers $25 as a prize to the one making the finest loaf of bread out of it.

It might be added in this connection that Mr. Duffy has been styled one of the leading retail grocers of Georgia. He keeps everything that is usually kept in a grocery store, and sells his goods at a reasonable profit. Being located on one of the finest streets in the city, Peachtree, he has a fine trade among the best class of people.

Now young ladies and old ladies, all who cook and all who eat, remember that Mr. Duffy offers the handsome sum of $25 for the best loaf of bread made out of Duffy's Superlative flour, exhibited at the exposition company. The company will appoint judges to decide the matter.

"TO THY SELF BE TRUE.

Then Canst no Man Say Thou Has Been False to Any One"—A Paraphraze Question Involved in This Article that All of Atlanta's Best Citizens Should be Cognizant Of.

Best Citizens Should be Cognizant Of.

There has been a great deal said and written recently about flour. Gentle reader do not lose sight of the old saying. "The proof of the Pudding Is in chewing the bag.

Now, we are representative increhants, and reliance can be placed in what we say. We tell you openly, without fear of contradiction, or that our statement can be refuted or contradiction or that our statement can be refuted or contradicted by facts, that Hoyt & Thorn's Regal Fatent Flour is the purest, best, and most reliable for bread and pastry purposes in the city. We are not afraid of a test, a trial test, a competitive test, any kind of test, at home or the exposition, or anywhere.

Now, for your own satisfaction, buy five pounds of any of the said best flour in the city, bake them side by side; whichever of the flours baked yield the best, sweetest, lightest loaf of bread, to it belongs the title of best—not our best, but best in the highest sense. Try it my friend—try it and like the competitive display of "Best Loaf of Bread" at the last exposition, in which, without our knowledge, a lady baked with our Regal and won the handsome $75.00 range offered by Walter Wood, for the best loaf of bread, in the face of the fact that every flour in Atlanta was represented by an expert in the culimary line, Hoyt & Thorn's Regal Patent Flour was # e best, won the range, and can do it again; so do not be mislead but try for yourselves. If your Regal is not what it is represented, we will refund your money.

CONLEY-ARNOLD. A NEW PHASE OF THE CONLEY-MAHEB AFFAIR.

Mr. John L Conley Wants Colonel Reuben Arnold Expelled From the Atlanta Bar-Other Court News.

The Conley-Maher controversy, though dis-posed of for a time by the veterans, is not yet settled. It assumed a new phase yesterday, and instead of being Conley-Maher, it was Conley-

Arnold.

Colonel Reuben Arnold steps into Mr. Mike Maher's shoes, so to speak, and is the object of Mr. Conley's animosity, it is sapposed, be cause he espoused Mr. Maher's cause, when the charges were pending against him in the the charges were pending sgains in in the veterans' association.

Vesterday Mr. Conley filed a petition in the superior court, asking that Colonel Arnold be expelled from the Atlanta bar, on the ground that he had been guilty of deceit and willful misconduct. Mr. Conley recites that the actions complained of occurred last January. At that time curred last January. At that time a suit was pending in the city court between Messrs. Conley and Maher, in which Mr. Conley was the defendant. It is alleged that Colonel Arnold, to produce a desired impression on the court and jury; loaned Mr. Maher a badge of the Confederate Veterans' association, knowing all the time that he was not a member of the association. That is, the conduct complained of, and for which Colonel Arnold is sought to be expelled from the bar.

Judge Marshall J. Clarke heard the petition shortly after it was filed yesterday. After considering it carefully he decided that the action arraigned by Mr. Conely was not of sufficient weight or importance to make out a case, and that Colonel Arnold could not be required to answer.

When approached on the subject, Colonel Arnold admitted that he had given Mr. Maher a veteran's badge, but that he did so believing he was fully entitled to it. He was under the impression that Mr. Maher was a member of the association in good standing, and in giving him his badge, simply desired to place him on an equal footing with Mr. Conley, who was displaying a similar one quite conspicuously.

Mr. Conley, who was displaying a similar one quite conspicuously.

Mr. Conley's action created a small sensation among the members of the association yesterday, and it is probable that at the next meeting of the veterans, the resolution asking Mr. Conley to resign, which was tabled several weeks ago, will be taken up and acted on. At the meeting last Monday night it was thought that the matter thad been peaceably settled, but since Mr. Conley has himself brought it up again, the veterans—those that were cognizant of the turn it took yesterday—are disposed to take some action that will forever preclude the possibility of its coming up again.

Verdict for the Plaintiff.

Verdict for the Plaintiff. Verdict for the Plaintiff.

The case of Sullivan against the Chattahoochee Brick company was concluded in the city court yesterday morning. It has been on trial five days, and the speeches were the most exhaustive that have been made in the present term. A verdict for $4,700 was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. The counsel for the plaintiff was Dean & Smith, of Rome, and Calhoun, King & Spalding; and for the detense; Candler, Thomson & Candler and Hopkins & Sons.

Jury Drawn.

Jury Drawn.

Jurors were drawn yesterday for the first hree weeks of criminal business in the supe-ior court, which begins on the 30th day of September.

Two panels were also drawn for the civil branch of the superior court.

A INCIDENT.

And the Facts Connected With It - How is It With You?

With You?

This is an age of progress, when the man or woman struggling for preminence or to acquire a competency, must lay aside the traditions of the past and leave the well won paths of generations gone before. On every hand we see the success attending those who have taken this as their moto. But to attain this we must use sound judgment, and to do that it is absolutely necessary to have an active mind in a healthy body.

Not more than one-half of the present generation are free from disease, and a very large percentage are afflicted with some disease of the rectum, (ples, fistula, fi sure, etc.) and still fall to apply for treat fistula, fi-sure, etc.) and still fall to apply for treat ment, because some "medical man" who should have lived two centuries ago, has told them they have lived two centuries ago, has told them they cannot be cured. Science laughs at the idea, and progress gives us the means of centing all these troubles without pain and without meouvenience. If in your business you were to find a leak that was bringing you to disaudal bankruptes, how quickly you would endeavor to stop it; but you neglect a disease that will certainly bring you to physical bankruptes, desiroy your hopes for the future, and make you a burden to yourself and your friends. Can you afford to do this, when I place within your reach a safe, easy anderfectual way of curing your troubles? Taking progress as my motto, I have laid aside all the ancient, painful and unsatisfactory means formerly employed and treat all cases by a means formerly employed and treat all cases by a radical treatment appropriate to each case, thereby restoring you to health and happtness. Devoting my entire time to treating this class of diseas, a may 1 not ask your consideration of my claims to your attention, promising you a cure if you are still within the reach of medicine? For full particulars, consult or write me, and I will take great 1 asure in giving you any information you may wish.

THEY ARE THIRSTY,

But They Musi Not Work Against the Ex press Agent rom the Dawson, Ga., News.

From the Dawson, Ga. News.

Some of our thirsty neighbors in the dry countles, it seems, are in the habit of sending a purchasing agent to this city to buy their supply of whisky who returns with it on the train as baggage, thus saving express charges.

So university is this habit becoming, and so perceptible is the decrease it is making in the express business, that Agent Glover will report to his company and ask that their contract with the railroad be enforced, which is that nothing but baggage will be carried free for passengers.

nothing but baggage will be carried free for passengers.

From this it would seem that our neighbors who live in dry counties will have to get their whisky in the old orthodox fashion or come over and take it back within themselves. Of the two plans we would recommend the former. The latter plan would be smuggling, and such smuggling is demoralizing. Nothing so completely unfits a man for business as to attempt to carry home a week's supply of whisky under his shirt. This is an accomplishment that belongs peculiarly to but few. We do not blame a man for trying to economize, for "economy is the road to wealth," and we realize that if some of wealth, and we realize that if some of wour friends in dry counties could save the express charges on their whisky they would get rich. But don't do it to the detriment of some one eise. Think how the express business in Dawson would be dwarfed. Don't let your own selfish motives deprive a worthy express agent of his means deprive a worthy express agent of his means of support.

Severe Cases of Blood Polson.

Thousands suffer from blood polson, who would be cured if they gave B. B. (Botanic Blood Baim a trial. Send to the Blood Baim Co.. Atlanta, Ga. for book of wonderful cures, that convince the most shoulded. It is really from skeptical. It is sent free.

J. O. Gibeon, Meildian, Mira, writes: "For a number of years of suffered untold agonies from blood poison. Several prominent particians did me little if any good. I began to use B. B. B. with very little faith, but, to my utter surprise it has made me a well and heaithy man."

Z. T. Hallerton, Macon, Ga., writes: "I contracted blood poison. I first tried physicians, and then went to Hot Springs. I returned home a ruined man physically. Nothing seemed to do me any good. My mother persuaded me to try B. B. B. To my utter astonishment every ulcer quickly healed."

Benj. Morris, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I suffered years from syphilitic blood poison which rejused to be cured by all treatment. Physicians pronounced it a hopeless case. I had no appetite, I had pains in hips and joints and my kidneys were diseased. My throat was ulcerated and my breast a mass or running sores. In this condition—I commenced a use of B. B. B. It healed every ulcer and sore and cured me completely within two months." I wk cured me completely within two months."
